"Given the tremendous need for PPE in New York City, Aaron's is honored to help Mayor de Blasio respond to these challenges as we all collectively support the rapidly changing situation caused by COVID-19," said John Robinson, Chief Executive Officer of Aaron's, Inc. "Rooms To Go and Aaron's, with their cut-and-sew manufacturing operations, are uniquely positioned to assist with COVID-19 relief, and I want to thank Rooms To Go for offering their PPE capacity to assist in making this donation possible."

Aaron's and RTG are working with New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio to provide much needed PPE to New York City, one of the areas of the country hardest hit by the COVID-19 pandemic.

"New York City is facing an unprecedented threat to its collective physical and financial health," said COVID-19 Public-Private Partnership Czar Peter Hatch. "From the beginning of this crisis, we have turned to private sector partners to help us fight COVID-19 and protect New Yorkers. Thank you to Aaron's and Rooms To Go for their generous donation of masks that will protect the City's healthcare and other frontline workers."

This initiative is part of Aaron's "Sew Happy to Help" campaign, which has focused on supporting COVID-19 relief efforts all over the country, including in Arizona, Georgia, Illinois, New York, Florida, Texas, and Nevada.
